

IN THE ABSTRACT

Please replace the Abstract with the following replacement abstract:

A product is provided which can be easily disassembled into separately recoverable materials. The product is provided with a connection member and separately a detachment member. The product is disassemblable into separate recoverable materials. Moreover, the detachment member utilizes a mechanism for deforming the connection member by way of an explosion, melting or a shape-memory alloy.